

Return trip to Meath for Neven

NEVEN Maguire's cooking is certainly proving very popular in Meath, as not long after his visit to Dunboyne for the local Irish school, he is heading to Ashbourne to an event organised by the South Meath-Fingal Lions Club.

It is hosting a cookery demonstration with the chef at the Marriott Hotel on Wednesday next, 10th March. Doors open at 7.30pm and the two-hour show commences at 8pm. All proceeds will go to purchase a replacement people carrier for the Tara Suite of the Mental Health Day Centre in Dunshaughlin, who support, counsel and rehabilitate people in the local community with mental health problems. The car is used to help people to get out and about and reintegrate back into the community.

Maguire began cooking at the age of 12 years of age in the kitchen of the family restaurant, MacNean's in Blacklion, Co Cavan. In 2003, he took over the business as head chef and proprietor of the greatly expanded MacNean House and Restaurant Maguire is currently appearing in his own series 'Home Chef' on RTE.

The Lions Club hopes that there will be lots of support. Tickets are €25 each and are available from the Lions Club on (086) 858 7101 or (086) 805 4316. They are also on sale at Tadg Riordan Motors, O'Brien's Off-Licence in Ashbourne and from the Gulf Oil Service Station at Baltrasna.
